
Ruben Joseph Fernando

Your Signature Theme Report

SURVEY COMPLETION DATE: 07-14-2022

DON CLIFTON

Father of Strengths Psychology and
Inventor of CliftonStrengths

Ruben Joseph Fernando

SURVEY COMPLETION DATE: 07-14-2022

Many years of research conducted by The Gallup Organization suggest that the most effective people are those who understand their strengths and behaviors. These people are best able to develop strategies to meet and exceed the demands of their daily lives, their careers, and their families.

A review of the knowledge and skills you have acquired can provide a basic sense of your abilities, but an awareness and understanding of your natural talents will provide true insight into the core reasons behind your consistent successes.

Your Signature Themes report presents your five most dominant themes of talent, in the rank order revealed by your responses to StrengthsFinder. Of the 34 themes measured, these are your "top five."

Your Signature Themes are very important in maximizing the talents that lead to your successes. By focusing on your Signature Themes, separately and in combination, you can identify your talents, build them into strengths, and enjoy personal and career success through consistent, near-perfect performance.

Ideation®

You are fascinated by ideas. When you discover an elegantly simple explanation for a complex situation, you are delighted. With a mind that is always looking for connections, you are intrigued when seemingly unrelated events or circumstances are somehow linked to each other. You take the world we know and turn it around so we can see it from a new perspective. You love ideas because they explain, because they clarify, because they connect and because they challenge you to reimagine the familiar. For all these reasons, you get a jolt of energy whenever a new idea occurs to you.

Learner®

You love to learn. The subjects that interest you most will depend on your other themes and experiences, but you will always be drawn to learning. The process of learning, more than the content or the result, is especially exciting for you. The steady progression from ignorance to competence energizes you — the thrill of the first few facts, the early efforts to recite or practice what you have learned, the growing confidence of a skill mastered. You love to engage in new experiences. For example, exploring new activities or fields of study might energize you. You thrive in dynamic environments where you can learn a lot about a new subject in a short period of time and then move on. You do not necessarily want to become the subject matter expert or earn a professional or academic credential. For you, the outcome is less significant than the journey.

Intellection®

You like to think. You like exercising the “muscles” of your brain, stretching them in multiple directions. Your need for mental activity may be focused. For example, you might be trying to solve a problem, develop an idea or understand another person’s actions. Sometimes, you may think about practical matters such as the events of the day or a conversation you plan to have. The exact focus will depend on your other strengths. There might be times when your mental activity lacks focus. Intellection does not dictate what you think about, just that you like to think. You are introspective, and you enjoy time alone to reflect. You are your own best companion as you ask yourself questions and experiment with answers to see how they sound. This musing will always be a natural part of your life.

Responsibility®

You take psychological ownership for anything you commit to, and whether large or small, you feel emotionally bound to follow it through to completion. Your good name depends on it. If for some reason you cannot deliver, apologies are not enough. Excuses and rationalizations are unacceptable. You will not quite be able to live with yourself until you have made restitution. Your conscientiousness, your obsession for doing things right and your impeccable ethics combine to create your reputation: utterly dependable. When people come to you for help — and they will — you must be selective. Your willingness to volunteer may sometimes cause you to take on more than you should.

Connectedness®

Things happen for a reason — you feel it deep in your soul. You know we’re all connected in some way. Yes, we have free will, and we’re responsible for our own choices. But even so, we’re part of something much bigger. You’re certain of the oneness of humanity. Some might call it the collective unconscious, spirit or life force. Whatever words resonate with you, understanding that we’re not isolated from one another gives you strength — and it comes with certain responsibilities. If we’re all part of a greater whole, then hurting others ultimately means hurting ourselves. Exploiting our communities means exploiting ourselves. These beliefs shape your values. You are considerate, caring and accepting. You build bridges between people from different cultures and backgrounds. You reassure others that there’s a purpose beyond the routine of daily life. The details of your faith may be influenced by your upbringing and culture, but your faith is steadfast nonetheless. It sustains you and helps you navigate the mysteries of life with confidence and grace.

COPYRIGHT STANDARDS

This document contains proprietary research, copyrighted and trademarked materials of Gallup, Inc. Accordingly, international and domestic laws and penalties guaranteeing patent, copyright, trademark and trade secret protection safeguard the ideas, concepts and recommendations related within this document.

The materials contained in this document and/or the document itself may be downloaded and/or copied provided that all copies retain the copyright, trademark and any other proprietary notices contained on the materials and/or document. No changes may be made to this document without the express written permission of Gallup, Inc.

Any reference whatsoever to this document, in whole or in part, on any webpage must provide a link back to the original document in its entirety. Except as expressly provided herein, the transmission of this material shall not be construed to grant a license of any type under any patents, copyright or trademarks owned or controlled by Gallup, Inc.

Gallup®, CliftonStrengths®, Clifton StrengthsFinder®, StrengthsFinder® and each of the 34 strengths theme names are trademarks of Gallup, Inc. All rights reserved. All other trademarks and copyrights are the property of their respective owners.